

Communication Matters: Practical strategies for optimising speech, conversation, and social participation in Parkinson's disease.

Presented by Jade Cartwright

Associate Professor Jade Cartwright is a speech pathologist and researcher in the School of Health Sciences at the University of Tasmania. Jade is a strong advocate for improving access to speech pathology, allied health, and rehabilitation-focused services for people with progressive neurological conditions, including Parkinson's disease.

This webinar will explore common speech and communication changes associated with Parkinson's disease and share ideas and strategies to respond proactively and optimise communication participation and success.

If you have a question about Parkinson's and communication that you would like answered at the conclusion of the webinar, please email your question to parkinsons@utas.edu.au

DATE

Tuesday, 30 April 2024

TIME

1.00pm – 2.00pm

RSVP

To register for the webinar
please click on the below link.

bit.ly/ZOOM-Communication-Matters